THE SUPPRESSION OF LOTTERIES.

At last the Government have put a stop to the sale of lottery tickets in our public streets, and in future this nuisance will cease. This is a matter for congratulation from every point of view, though we fear it will press somewhat hardly, for a time, upon those who have gained a scanty living by the sale of the tickets. Our only regret is that all lotteries without exception cannot be dealt with in the same summary fashion. Perhaps before long all lotteries will share the same fate, for the present exceptions are illogical. However, the Government is to be congratulated on having done something, though apart from the injurious effects of gambling upon the moral nature of the individual-a matter which hardly admits of argument—we see no for which the tickets are sold has nothing at all to do with the principle involved, and it become members. Our London office, 36, New looks to us as if the practice so prevalent every-stigmatised above are in our opinion entirely Broad-street B.C., acts as London agency to where, of raffling for articles at bazaars held unwarrantable, and afford deplorable examples for religious and other objects, and which is of purposely perverted leniency.

openly countenanced by the clergy of all denoninations, may have had something to do with this exemption of lotteries for charitable objects from the law that has just come into force. We hear from a correspondent in Cairo that some working girls, earning only P.T. 3 to 5 per day have been known to spend as much as P.T. 2 of the money so urgently wanted at home in the purchase of lottery tickets. Perhaps the new law will render this impossible for the future, but it is greatly to be regretted that lotteries of all kinds have not been suppressed, now that the matter has once been taken in hand.

There is a case in which British influence. if it is to be exerted at all for the meral improvement of the Egyptian people, should have been able to make itself felt to the fullest extent possible. It is notorious that in England it is found impossible to check the distribution of the millions of prospectuses of foreign lotteries that are circulated throughout the country, and there need be no fear that gambling propensities will not find far too many opportunities for their indulgence, let the law be ever so strict and the endeavour to make people moral ever so earnest. But we claim that as far as law can be made effectual in closing the door to facilities for gambling of all kinds and reducing these to a minimum, so far it should be unsparingly applied, and we consider that in the present instance a great opportunity has been missed for a determined things by halves, and stopping short at a half-way house in carrying through a much-needed reform. Surely on such a question as this our British advisers could have led the Egyptian Government to see the advisability of dealing vidual and the collective standpoints, as gambling by means of lotteries.

THE MIXED COURTS AND THE S.P.C.A.

One of the minor charms of the Capitulations is that while the native can be punished with all the rigour of the law for cruelty to animals, the European almost invariably gets off scotfree, however brutal he may have been. The judgments given by the Mixed Courts at Cairo prove this, and the most cursory review of such cases shows that the upshot was a general judgment of acquittal. The grounds on which the Court based its leniency were that the police had not proved that the wounds were recent, and that in some instances the injuries may have been mere scratches or simply due to chafing from the harness. In each case the certificate of the veterinary surgeon stated that the animals were found to have wounds, and that the alleged sores were not due to mere chafing, but required from fifteen to twenty days' treatment. It is obvious that these judgments were nothing more nor less than cases of miscarriage of justice and misplaced leniency. The result of such a state of things is deplorable, for the police are naturally discouraged in their efforts to bring these inhuman offenders to justice, who, merely because they are Europeans, are enabled to escape. The police and the S.P.U.A. are doing excellent work at Cairo, and their efforts ought to receive the hearty support of the tribunals. Not only are the judges lenient, but the law is at fault. For example, no power exists whereby animals belonging to Europeans can be sent to hospitals, while in the case of natives there is such a power. Surely both should be placed on the same footing. But it is useless to clamour for any extension of the law in reason why any one class of lottery should be this respect, if the Mixed Courts persist in exempted from the general rule. The object regarding cruelty to animals as an absolutely venial sin on the part of Europeans resident in Egypt. The judgments which we have

PRINCE COLIBRI.—This wonderful little man will hold his first reception in Alexandria this afternoon, commencing at 5 p.m., in the Alhambra Theatre. A committee of medical men in Cairo declared him to be a "most wondrous mite of humanity," and those of our readers who wish to gaze on the eighth wonder of the world should not miss such an unique opportunity.

SHOOTING AFFRAY.—Yesterday evening, at the 8.30 o'clock, two Italians began discharging revolvers at one another in Sisters-street, Alexandria, owing to jealousy about a woman None of the shots took effect. The two men were cleverly captured by a policeman. This man happened to be in plain clothes at the time, and was travelling in a tramcar. When he heard the report of fire-arms he jumped off the tram and arrested both of them.

A BABY ON THE BOURSE. - An extraordinary "scene" was enacted this morning at the Alexandria Bourse. While the exchange was crowded a pretty young woman, carrying a baby in her arms, rushed in with the avowed object of consigning her offspring to its father, a well-known remisier, who had it appears, married and deserted her. The man in question, however, was not on the Bourse at the time, and after publicly denouncing her faithless spouse in unmeasured terms, the excited woman was politely escorted to the door.

Yesterday afternoon and evening, receptions Idris Bey Raghe near Abdeen Palace, on the occasion of the marriage of his daughter, Fitnat Hanem to Mohamed Bey Suleiman, son of Mahmoud Pasha Suleiman. The road leading to the house, the court, garden, and reception hall were beautifully and tastefully decorated with flowers, lanterns, and fairy lamps. Whoever was responsible for the floral decoration, deserves the utmost credit for his taste.

The first reception was held at 5 p.m., the second at 9 p.m. Au enormous member of guests were present, at one time reaching the imposing total of 15,000. The buffet, which argely patronised, was under the care of Mr. Wild, the popular manager of the Savoy Hotel, and we need not say that it did him credit. Music was supplied by the Egyptian Army Infantry Band.

Among those present were Mustapha Pasha Fehmy, Boutros Pasha Ghali, Fouad Pasha Fakhry Pasha, Dr. Rucker-Jenish, Aziz Pasha Izzet, Thur eyssen Pasha, Adly Pasha Yeghen, Riaz Pasha, Hilmy Pasha, Comanos Pasha, Mr. Machell, Crookshank Pasha, Dr. Pietri Bey, Piot Bey, Mr. F. #### CHRONIQUE JUDICIAIRE

TRIBUNAL DE COMMERCE D'ALEXANDRIE

LIVRAISON DE TITRES NOUVEAUX

R. Rutimever contre la Societe Generale de Pressage et de Depots

Peut-on en l'absence d'un texte formel de loi appliquer par analogie au cas de vol ou de perte de titres au porteur les règles édictées par le code en vue de la perte d'une lettre de change ?

C'est ce que prétend le demandeur qui s'adresse à la justice pour réclamer la délivrance d'un second titre ou d'un duplicata.

Le tribunal mixte de commerce d'Alexandrie vient de débouter M. Rutimeyer de sa demande et de le condamner aux frais.

Voici dans leurs grandes lignes les motifs invoqués par le juge :

Sans avoir à relever les différences qui peuvent exister entre le caractère d'une lettre de change et celui d'une action au porteur, il est de principe que les sociétés par actions dont les titres sont au porteur ne doivent, comme ce titre l'indique, qu'un titre. Par conséquent, en cas de perte ou de vol d'une action, c'est au porteur éventuel que la société qui l'a émise doit le payer. Pour écarter les droits du porteur éventuel il faudrait établir sa mauvaise foi.

Dans ces conditions le tribunal ne peut passer outre au principe, alors même que la société intéressée se bornerait, comme en d'espèce la Société de Pressage et de Dépôts, à s'en rapporter à la décision de la justice. Il va sans dire, cependant, que la Société peut, sous sa responsabilité et extrajudiciairement. moyennant les garanties qu'elle jugera nécesaires, délivrer un duplicata et payer même les

PRIVATE THEATRICALS AT BULKELEY.

Yesterday evening, Mrs. Lang Anderson gave most charming entertainment in Alderson's

Garden to her numerous friends, who numbered between three or four hundred. The programme consisted of two farces, with an interlude in the shape of a violin solo, Mariani's 'Abandono" exquisitely rendered by Miss Euna Anderson, whose skill kept the whole audience in an enraptured silence, which at the close gave place to tumultuous applause The guests were invited for 9 o'clock, and shortly after that hour the theatre presented a most brilliant aspect, the ladies most richly gowned, their dresses blending with the large number of military uniforms. It is quite impossible to mention who were present. Suffice it to say that the gathering was representative of British society in Ramleh and Alexandria. The host and hostess, assisted by the Misses Anderson were indefatigable in attending to their guests, all of whom were unanimous in pronouncing the entertainment an immense success. The first play given was "Petticoat Perfidy," in which Mrs. Borton and Mrs. Gedge undertook the parts of the rival ladies, Mrs. Montresor and Mrs. Norwood Jones. They were simply perfect in their acting. As for Miss Lang Anderson, in the rôle of Juliette, the French soubrette, she fairly brought down the house by her espiègle rendering of the part. Her impersonation of the false Russian Princess was excellent and was acknowledged to be fully up to professional achievement. The second face, "A Regular Fix," was quite as amusing as "Petticoat Perfidy" and kept the audience in roars of laughter. The principal part fell to Mr. J. R. Bassett, who filled the rôle of Mr. Hugh de Bras to perfection. The part was somewhat trying. and called for a good deal of histrionic ability. But Mr. Basset never faltered from start to finish, and his vivacity and the aplomb with which he met his difficulties kept the audience spellbound with amusement Mr. E. T. Peel was also excellent as the old solicitor, and his "make up" was perfect. In fact the "make up's" were all ex-tremely good, and Miss V. Alderson, as the old housekeeper, Mr. Douglas Allen, as the bailiff, and Miss E. Allen as Matilda Jane, looked (as well as acted) their parts to perfection. Mrs. Gedge and Miss Lang Anderson kept up the high standard of acting they had displayed in the previous farce, and the scene in which the former went into hysterics was a very capable piece of acting. Mr. P. J. Byrne and Mr. G. M. Sharpe were equally good in their roles, and from the begining to the end not one of the actors or actresses showed the slighest sign of faltering, and there was never any need of a prompter. Both the pieces could not in fact have been better acted, and immense pains had evidently been taken to ensure perfection. After the dramatic part of the enter tainment, an adjournment was made to the buffet, and the pleasant evening was brought to a close with a dance.

AN INSTITUTE FOR CAIRO.

To the Editor of the Egyptian Gazette. Sir.—I was glad to see this matter brought forward so ably in your leading article, and so forcibly seconded by the writer of "Under the Mosquito Net." Perhaps I may be allowed to trespass on your kindness to tell of the results of two years' work for the inauguration of such an establishment in this city. The idea was forced upon me by overhearing a young man remark that there are but two amusement to be had here, -getting drunk and the frequentation of the places at which, on the authority of the truth bluntly stated, and I was obliged to think the matter over.

As I generally act after having lain a-thinking, it was not long before I was in communication with England regarding funds for a Young Men's Association. For a time I thought the ship I had launched was going on very well, but suddenly she struck on a rock and foundered. That rock was the question of na tionalities. I maintained that the association should admit all Europeans, the people who had the money said it should only admit Englishmen, I refused to have anything to do with it on their lines, they refused the funds on mine, and things came to a stand-still where they are likely to remain until the end of the ages.

Yet I did not despair. There is in Cairo, not a hundred miles from the old Alhambra, a very fine hall, and I decided to try to persuade the person who presides over its destinies to do something to stem the tide of vice and intemperance, and draw young men from the saloons by providing healthy amusement for them elsewhere. The answer I got was as follows: "If these men are not going to be converted, and to attend our meetings and Bible-classes, they are as well in the saloons as here." There was nothing further to be said; it was a case of "Aut sint quod sunt, aut non sint."

Thus a splendid concert hall, which might, nder proper management, be the means of keeping many young men away from the bottle and worse, is allowed to waste its sweetness on the desert air, because, in the opinion of its directress, a concert, like all other amusements, is of the Devil.-I am, etc.,

RAPPORT DU COMITE

Nos premières paroles seront pour adresse n dernier adieu à ceux de nos membres qui sont décédés depuis notre dernière Assembl La mort a frappé impitoyablement dans nos rangs et nous avons perdu 7 de nos collègues depuis un an. Nous prions leurs familles de recevoir avec nos regrets personnels, les senti-ments de condoléance de la Chambre tout

Messieurs.

Nous avons l'honneur de vous rendre compte des travaux que notre Comité a accomplis de-puis notre Assemblée Générale d'Avril dernier.

Bien qu'à cette époque nous fussions sortis de la première enfance, il restait encore beaucoup à faire pour que notre Institution fût définitivement assise et nous avons eu à com-pléter notre organisation sur bien des points. Nous avons fait de très sensibles progrès et, si nous ne pouvons pas considérer être au bout de nos peines, s'il reste encore d'énergiques efforts à faire, au moins avons-nous la satisfaction de voir la faveur croissante avec laquelle les particuliers et les Administrations coutent ou demandent nos avis.

Tout d'abord, nous rappellerons ce que nous disions l'an dernier des impatiences de certains: les solutions qu'ils désirent voir à certaines difficultés qui les concernent ou concernent leur profession ne sont pas aplanies comme ils le voudraient, les abus ne sont pas encore réprimés, les réformes se font attendre. A cela il y a de multiples raisons, mais les principales sont :

1. que souvent ils gardent leurs souffrances plus ou moins cachées et n'en saisissent pas a Chambre.

2. que les réclamations les mieux justifiées n'aboutissent pas du jour au lendemain et par le seul fait que le désir de voir cesser les abus a été manifesté.

3. les réformes si nombreuses et si désirables à apporter en bien des points ne dépendent pas seulement des efforts qui sont faits pour les amener, mais sont le plus souvent très longues à obtenir et plus longues encore à établir dé finitivement

Pendant l'année écoulée, le Comits a eu la satisfaction de voir que les questions qu'il a étudiées et soigneusement débarrassées de tout ce qui n'était pas l'intéret général, ont trouvé auprès des administrations compétentes l'ac queil favorable ou les justes solutions qu'on devait attendre.

C'est ainsi que sur la question du Concordat préventif ce sont les études, les travaux et les vœux que votre Comité a présentés au Gouvernement, qui ont servi de bases aux décisions de la Conférence judiciaire : que, sur la question des billets d'aller et retour, l'Administration des Chemins de fer en a promis le rétablissement progressif et prochain; que le Corps consulaire sans abandonner aucune de ses prérogatives a consenti à une consultation officieuse de la Chambre sur les listes des électeurs pour les juges assesseurs. — le Gouvernement prend en très sérieuse considération et examine le moyen de satisfaire au vœu émis par la Chambre relativement à une législation générale concernant l'usage des Poids et Mesures, et nous espérons que les observations que nous avons présentées relativement à l'exécution du décret du 7 Janvier sur le droit de séjour sur les quais d'Alexandrie ameneront une amodiation des mesures édictées pour les rendre véritablement conformes aux usages et aux intérêts du Commerce Enfin, nous avons eu le plaisir de voir des commercants en désaccord faire appel à l'arbitrage de la Chambre ; c'est là l'heureux avènement parmi nos membres de mœurs commerciales que nous devons signaler et encourager de tout notre pouvoir. Notre comité qui a tenu de nombreuse tions ci-dessus ; il a eu à examiner et à faire valoir auprès des Chemins de fer une réclamation des importateurs de meubles et an outre, à étudier diverses autres question notamment celle des droits d'accise sur les cotons filés, le drawback des tabacs, etc. En dehors de ces questions il en est une qui continue à nous préoccuper constamment et qui a toute notre attention, car elle a une in portance capitale, c'est l'extension même de notre Chambre, extension qui, heureuse croft sans cess

Depuis l'an dernier nous avons acquis 134 membres nouveaux, ce qui porte le total actuel à près de 500 et nous vous signalerons que les seuls membres du Comité ont amené, en juin 1904, par leur propagande personnelle, quarante adhésions nouvelles. Ici nous ouvrirons une parenthèse pour vous adresser une nouvelle exhortation à nous amener de nouveaux collègues. Plus nous serons nombreux, plus nous serons forts; aussi nous insistons tout particulièrement sur le devoir qu'a chacun de nous de recruter parmi ses correspondants et ses amis de nouveaux membres de notre institution. Nous ne saurions trop insister sur ce point

Nous ne saurions trop insister sur le point et nous espérens que notre appel sera entendu. Notre Bulletin est de plus en plus en faveur et les articles qui y paraissent sont si intéressants pour le Commerce Général, que de grands Journaux d'économie politique ne dédaignent pas de les reproduire. Nous grands Journaux d'économie politique ne dédaignent pas de les reproduire. Nous faisons appel à tous les Membres de la Chambre pour qu'ils veuillent bien de temps à autre prendre une part effective à la rédaction de ces articles. La publication de notre Bulletin, toujours en progrès, répand vos noms et vos firmes, non seulement dans le pays, mais dans le monde entier et de cela aussi vous ne pouvez manquer de retirer des avantages directs ou indirects. L'an dernier nous exprimions le regret que des Associations professionnelles ne se fondent pas en Egypte et l'espoir de voir bientôt les intéresses aux mêmes questions se grouper pour défendre leurs intérêts communs.

Nous sommes heureux de voir qu'après les courtiers en valeurs, les entrepreneurs de travaux publics et les intéressés à la navigation fluviale ont pu constituer des Unions dont certainement ils retireront le plus grand profit; d'autres groupements sont en projet et le Comité de la Chambre sera toujours heureux de prêter son concours, soit pour aider à leur formation, soit pour prendre en mains la défense des intérêts généraux des corporations qu'ils représentent.

En résumé, vous voyez, Messieurs, que, quoi qu'on ait pu dire ou penser, votre Comité n'est pas resté inactif et a pu faire œuvre utile pour ceux qui ont bien voulu le saisir de la défense de leurs interets. Mais nous vous rappellerons ce que nous vous avons dejà dit l'il ne suffit pas de creer l'outil. il faut s'en servir.

ALLOCUTION DU PRESIDENT

Messieurs,

Malgré mon désir de vous retenir ici le moins longtemps possible, je veux ajouter quelques mots au rapport de votre Comité et vous entretenir encore un peu de certaines questions qui touchent aux intérêts généraux du Commerce de l'Egypte.

Depuis quelques années le pays vit dans une ère de prospérité croissante qui a peu d'exemples dans l'histoire économique des peuples, et cette prospérité, si grande déjà, n'a fait que s'accentuer pendant l'année qui vient de s'écouler. C'est la un état de choses éclatant aux regards de tous, une constatation que chacun est heureux de faire et je ne crois pas utile d'émailler de chiffres cette courte allocution pour faire ressortir davantage et mieux toucher du doigt une situation incontestable et

Mais au milieu du riant tableau de l'avancement de l'agriculture, du développement fructueux du Commerce et de l'Industrie, de l'essor général des affaires, il y aurait bientôt quelques ombres, si l'on n'y prenait garde.

La situation si satisfaisante de l'Egypte impose à tous, Gouvernement et particuliers, des devoirs nouveaux et impérieux. Eu ce qui concerne l'Etat, je laisserai de côté tout ce qui ne le touche pas d'une façon directe et absolue ; mais j'estime que, plus la prospérité d'un pays est grande, plus aussi doivent être grandes la clairvoyance et la prévoyance des hommes qui le gouvernent. Dans un pays comme celui-ci en particulier, l'Etat acquiert une responsabilité énorme en raison de la façon dont le est dans un heureux moment que les regards doivent se tourner vers l'avenir avec plus d'acuité, c'est alors que la prévision des besoins futurs est la plus indispensable et doit être la plus consommée, car la roue de la tion ou dans l'Economie politique peuvent être le point de départ d'un arrêt dans l'essor de la Là où existent des Institutions parlementaires, on peut dire que le Gouvernement est dirigé par les intéressés eux mêmes qui sont ainsi, en quelque sorte, les agents de leur fortune : ici l'initiative de l'Etat, partant sa responsabilité, est entière; mais les commercants n'en seraient pas moins coupables s'ils n'usaient de tous les moyens pour éclairer le Gonvernement et lui faire parvenir des avis autorises. Pour cela il n'est qu'un moyen vrais ment pratique, ce sont les Unions professionnelles groupées autour de la Chambre de Commerce et formant avec elle un tout indissoluble.

Comme vous le dit le rapport de votre Comité ces Unions ou Associations commencent à surgir ; on commence à comprendre dans tous les milieux commerciaux l'intérêt qu'ont les personnes s'occupant d'u même genre d'affaires. A s'entendre pour discuter les intérêts généraux et communs de leur corporation. Cet intérêt devient chaque jour plus intense au fur et à mesure que le développement du commerce amène un plus grand nombre de personnes ou de firmes à exercer une même profession.

En effet, une foule de problèmes qui restaient ou pouvaient rester dans l'ombre, il y a peu de temps encore, réclament impérieuse ment une solution maintenant; l'essor même des affaires crée de nouvelles difficultés qu'i faut vaincre et pour cela s'unir, sous peine de voir les efforts rester stériles. Au précepte de Machiavel: "diviser pour regner," opposez magnifique devise : "l'Union fait la Force."

Je sais bien que nombre de commercants o d'industriels craignent les ententes, et je le comfirend un peu, lorsqu'il s'agit de Trust, de Cartell, de Comptoir ou de Syndicat destinés réglementer des productions, des prix d'achaou de vente, etc., et je trouve bien nature le sentiment qui porte chacun à vouloir garde son indépendance absolue dans sa manière de traiter les affaires ; mais les associa tions dont je vous parle en ce moment ne doivent avoir pour but que la solution des problèmes généraux dans l'intérêt de tous, et ne pas toucher à la liberté indivi-duelle dans l'assence de la profession. Il n'y a

done pas de raisons, pour que ces associations ne se multiplient pas rapidement; tout milite, au contraire, en faveur de leur formation; que, dans chaque branche industrielle ou commer-ciale, un homme d'initiative et de decision se mette à la tête du mouvement et nous verrons bientot, comme en Europe, chaque profession ameliorer ses conditions d'exploitation et en cas de besoin se défendre energiquement et avec succes ; une foule d'ennuis, d'abus, d'entraves dont tous se plaignent en les subissant et que chacun en particulier est impuissant à reprimer, disparatront devant la pression generale et la volonte universelle de les faire

J'ajouterai encore sur ce sujet qu'il ne faut en aucun cas, vouloir transformer ces associa-tions en instruments de combat ou en machines de guerre contre qui que ce soit ; elles doivent avoir pour but d'éclairer le gouverne ment, les administrations, et même tout le public sur les besoins des professions qu'elles représentent ou sur les abus dont elles souffrent ; montrer les améliorations à apporter, indiquer les moyens de ramener la prospérité disparue ou ceux à employer pour empêcher les affaires de péricliter. Elles doivent aussi faire acte de cette sage prévoyance dont je vous parlais tout à l'heure et en éclairant de conseils judicieux les hommes d'Etat charge de la difficile mission de gouverner, être autant que possible les propres instruments de leurs destinées. Le rôle de ces associations doit donc etre tout pacifique et diplomatique; cela n'exclut l'énergie ni dans les décisions, ni dans les moyens à employer pour aboutir ; mais je le répète, le but doit être d'édifier pais blement et non de briser avec fraças. Ainsi elles prépareront pendant la prospérité les armes qui 1904. our seront nécessaires pour combattre au jour où viendrait l'adversité. La prévoyance de l'avenir est pour les parti-

others comme pour les Gouvernements une des qualités des plus éminentes et nous devons toujours avoir à l'esprit ce qu'en dit si justement Charron dans son livre de la Sagesse "La prévoyance est un grand remede contre tous maux, lesquels ne peuvent apporter grande alteration ni changement étant arrivés à un homme qui s'y attendait, comme au contraire ls blessent et endommagent fort ceux qui se ai sent surprendre."

Comme je vous l'ai dit tout à l'heure, vous trouverez toujours dans la Chambre de Commerce Internationale, l'Alma Mater qui sera prête à vous protéger et à diriger vos efforts elle prendra sous son égide toutes ces Unions, elle leur viendra en aide, elle fera siennes les justes revendications qui lui seront présentées et qui revetiront alors la forme d'un vœu général. On se demandera peut-être pourquoi il est nécessaire que les Associations professionelles se groupent autour de la Chambre et pour quelles raisons il faut que ce soit elle qui doive être chargée en dernier ressort de présenter aux diverses administrations compétentes les désidérata exprimés par ces Unions. Il v a a cela deux raisons principales :

La première c'est que, malgre tout le soin avec lequel les délégués des Associations étudieront les questions, leurs conclusions seront toujours empreintes de l'esprit particulariste que revêtent les désirs exprimés par les intéressés, malgré leur bonne foi et la volonté d'y échapper. De plus il est extrêmement rare que les questions commerciales ou industrielles si particulières qu'elles paraissent ne touchent pouvoir s'exerce. C'est au moment où le pays pas, par certains côtes, à d'autres professions que celle qui est la principale intéressée et qu'il peut être nécessaire aussi de les consulter pour que les intérêts de tous soient sauvegardés. Par conséquent il est nécessaire que le Comité de la Chambre, rassemblant tous Fortune est parfois arrêtée par un grain de les avis, toutes les opinions, envisageant et sable et les moindres fautes dans l'Administra étudiant les questions sous leur aspect d'ensemble plus général et les dépouillant de ce que l'on appelle les questions de clocher, fortune publique, voire le signal de sa de présente alors des réclamations ou des voux universel. Il est facile de comprendre qu'il faut éviter à tout prix ces tiraillements bizarres d'associations demandant énergiquement des choses contre lesquelles d'autres associations protestent avec non moins de vigueur. En second lieu la Chambre, émanation de tous les commerces, de toutes les industries, de toutes es nationalités représente la fédération des intérêts du pays tout entier et son autorité sera toujours supérieure à celle des Associations qu'on pourrait encore accuser quelque fois de ne représenter qu'une fraction insignifiante du Commerce général.

J'espère que ce ne sera pas en vain que j'aurai fait appel à vos sentiments de défense et de prévoyance solidaires et que l'an prochain à pareil époque, la Chambre verra à côté d'Elle. pour le plus grand bien de tous, beaucoup de nouvelles Associations ou Unions professionnelles, en même temps qu'elle constatera que le nombre de ses membres se sera accru considérablement.

J'ai terminé, Messieurs, et je vons prie de me pardonner d'avoir retenu votre attention aussi longtemps; mon excuse est dans l'immense désir que j'ai de voir l'Industrie et le Commerce du pays continuer leur marché ascendante et fructueuse et si mes paroles peuvent y contribuer pour une si petite part que ce soit, je me tiendrai fort heureux.

THE ASSOUAN DAM.

MR. COPE-WHITEHOUSE'S OPINION.

Mr. Cope-Whitehouse writes to us from Newport, Rhode Island, as follows:-The interest of the bankers and mill-owners in Providence, Fall River, and Boston, who use Exyptian cotton, has caused them to participate in the disappointment, felt by the commercial world, at the failure of the Assouan Reservoir to give the results so freely promised in 1894, and again in 1898. Had the facts been presented to the Technical Commission, in 1894, the conclusions of Sir B. Baker, Sig. Torricelli, and M. Boulé would have been different. The articles, which appeared in the American Press, when the contract for the dam was signed-and which now lie before meshow that it was believed that the increased area would be two million acres. In 1902, it appears to have been thought that it would be about one million acres. But in March. 1904, it was reported that Earl Percy had stated in the House of Commons, that "it was understood that the whole amount brought under perennial cultivation, as the result of the construction of the Assouan Dam, was 170,000 acres"; while, recently, a paragraph from the London "Times" has been published, which describes the situation as: "All but 5,000 acres was cultivated." A copy of the Assouan trolley ticket, however, states that the benefits in 1903 were £4,000,000 !

Under these circumstances New England mill-owners, who had held off for the expected increased supply of long-staple Egyptian cotton, at a price in the neighbourhood of fivepence a pound, have now changed their machinery and turned their capital to other manufactures. There is a feeling that they have not been fairly dealt with; and this has had something to do with the recent action of the State Department, in compliance with the request of a distinguished Senator who is influential in the Senate Committee of Foreign Affairs.

Without entering into details, it is sufficient to say that the Secretary of State forwarded, on Dec. 18, 1904, instructions to the Diplomatic Agent and Consul General of the United States. to enquire, (1) Whether the Egyptian Government would issue to me the Hodja (land patent) for the Muellah Dasis; (2) Whether it was true, as stated during the course of the preceding months, that the Egyptian Government intended to make the Raiyan Drainage Canal, Flood Escape and Reservoir; (3) If this were not the case, whether American engineers, capitalists and contractors would be encouraged to undertake the enterprise at their own risk?

This Raiyan project, as a flood escape. consists in bringing the depression which, at the east end of the Wadi Lulu, is twelve kilometres distant from the flooded area, to the Nile watershed. The works would be wholly in the desert, and the sluiceways would be, in part, driven through the limestone rock. The entire Nile flood at Assouan passes through "140 under sluices of 7 metres by 2 metres," with "40 upper sluices of  $3\frac{1}{2}$  metres by 2 metres for passing the high level water of the reservoir." (The Assouan Reservoir and Lake Moeris, Khedivial Geographical Society, Jan. 16. 1904). The Raiyan flood escapes need not have more than one-tenth of the sectional r.a of the Assouan wood escapes; as the iver will take care of the rest. Suppose, each in the Rosetta or Damietta banks excellent work by reclaiming Nile wastes by ould disappear; and the volume passing means of regulators, and converting them into ceneath the Cairo bridges would sensibly fat lands which produce abundatly—with what diminish. These sluiceways would not require enhancement of values may be imagined. an aggregate sectional area exceeding (say) 250 The directorate is a very influential one. square metres. With an incline towards the ("Financier.") west, and increased velocity, a comparatively small "sewer" could do increased work. But, in any event, the whole engineering work resembles a few miles of sewerage in Paris, in similar stone, and is utterly undeserving of the terms in which the "Raiyan Canal" described in Appendix 1 of the Blue-Book, ugust, 1904. It is obvious that these flood ewers need not be of the same dimensions : April. nor take off at the same point, nor be driven at the same level; nor have a 'floor' or a "roof" of a uniform character. It is easy to see hat, for (much) less than £600,000; the merican engineers, who offered, in 1895, to cansfer their energy and plant from Chicago to Cairo, could have delivered the sluiceways within a year; and, that, had the American Diplomatic Agent and Consul-General received an encouraging reply in November, 1904, or January, 1905, the danger of a Nile flood, graphically depicted by every writer on Egypt, which must bring disaster "sooner rather than later," would be relegated to a future as remote as the (nearly) two thousand years, which have elapsed since "Moeris" no longer received "the superabundance of the flood." No doubt there are engineers available, on the eastern side of the Atlantic, who could still "rush" the work, and open the channels in five months; but the recent communication made to me by the Department of State at Washington, from the American Consul-General at Cairo, expressly precludes the hope that the work will be undertaken in the near future. It has been frequently stated in the "Egyptian Gazette," and formally repeated in a communication, published May 30, 1892, that, under no circumstances whatsoever, wil my claim be presented by me, or with any knowledge and approval, against the Government and inhabitants of Egypt; ex-

to establish my title, so as to prevent third parties from selling my project, and the fruits of my expenditure of time and money to bondholders; or, as it might be put more briefly," blackmailing the Egyptian taxpayers." Such a suit would be entirely friendly; and even if presented in my name would be supported by the law-advisers of His Highness the Khedive.

The recent discussions of the Raiyan project in Washington, Rome, London and Berlin, have related entirely to the obstacles interposed by officials, since 1867, acting under the authority of the dominant Power. The appeal to Austria Hungary, France, Germany, Italy and Russia is based upon the distinction between the United States, as one of the nationalities protected by the six Powers, and these guarantors of the "Guaranteed Loan" of 1885, who are also, since 1882, jointly and severally liable for the enforcement of the Capitulations.

On January 25, 1905, the American Consul General informed the Department of State that "referring to instructions of Oct. 29 and Dec. 17, respectively," he had "conversed at length with Lord Cromer, and the Adviser of the Ministry of Public Works," who informed him that "there is no thought of utilising the Raiyan project in the near future"; and, "they stated that, if Mr. Cope Whitehouse attempted to start a company on his own account, he would be prevented by the authorities." Naturally, this has given rise to a strong feeling of mingled indignation and scorn. A verbal communication, made by the Diplomatic Agent of His Britannic Majesty that "the authorities" would "prevent" an "attempt" to form a company in Massachusetts, or to send engineers to Egypt with a view of aiding the Government to protect the Delta against a dangerous flood, was well calculated to rouse resentment, with a very large element of ridicule, at the difference between the menace and the means of execut-

The response to this request is awaited with interest by a large number of Americans, who think that "the open door" in Egypt does not admit to anything more than a light closet, or an

NEW EGYPTIAN COMPANY.

The prospects of the New Egyptian Company have been attracting a good deal of attention lately, and the £1 shares, now standing at 17, seem cheap on merits. The company has a nominal capital of £500,000, but only 293,879 shares have so far been issued, and whilst the permissible total of Four per Cent. Debentures s £100,000, the right has only been exercised to the extent of £55,000 up to now. Not only the company possess important properties and interests, but its available cash resources are practically equivalent to 10s. per share. Its acquired interests include the disposal of 10,000 feddans of land (one feddan equals 1.085 acres). building sites in Cairo and half the Deferred shares in the Menzaleh Canal and Navigation Company, which has a monopoly of steam navigation on Lake Menzaleh. It is also interested in the Anglo-American Steamer and Hotel Co. and the Ethiopian Railway, and it holds the bulk of the capital of the Sudan Development and Exploration Co. It will be perefore, that between September 15 and seen, therefore, that the New Egyptian Company ctober 10, 1905, the Ministry of Public is prominently associated with those important rks could, in a few hours, connect the developments which are contributing to the aiyan sluiceways with the flood to the west prosperity of Egypt, and transforming the land the Bahr Youssef, all apprehension of a of the Pharaons. #### ARMY AND NAVY.

(FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.)

London, April 4. Captain Travers E. Clarke, 1st Battalion Royal Inniskilling Fusiliers, has been selected for the appointment of staff captain of the Middelburg sub-district, Transvaal, for four years. Captain Clarke was with the 2nd Battalion-now in Egypt-in the Tirah campaign 1897-98, and was adjutant of it in the campaign of 1901-02 in the Transvaal and Orange River Colony.

Major-General E. P. Leach, V.C., who a few years ago was a well-known man in Egypt, retires to-morrow from the command of the Belfast district. There is little likelihood of him getting further employment.

The new establishment of the troops in Malta came into operation to-day. The garrison in the present year will consist of the following eight companies R.G.A., 2,017 of all ranks three companies Royal Engineers, 473; eight battalions of infantry, 6,861; Army Service Corps, 79; Royal Army Medical Corps, 213; Royal Malta Artillery, five companies, 535, other details 95-total 10,174 of all ranks, or 1,372 less than last year. The strength of the Royal Malta Artillery has been reduced owing to the withdrawal of one company from

The general annual report on the British Army for the year ending Sept. 30, 1904, just issued, states that the number of recruits who joined, excluding the Colonial Corps, for the twelve months under review were :

For the Army ... ... 41,279 Militia ... ... ... 35,264

The numbers taken have been restricted, owing to the fact that the mounted corps had not fallen to their normal peace establishment, but were still largely in excess owing to the special recruiting during the South African

Consequently the cavalry has practically emained closed to recruiting, the Royal Horse Artillery and Royal Field Artillery baving been practically closed for drivers, and partially for gunners. The Royal Army Medical Corps and the Army Service Corps have also been closed, while the Royal Engineers have been closed except for drivers and some of the special trades. The Army Ordnance Corps has also been closed, except at the headquar. ters of the corps. Proceeding, the report states that the regulation that all recruits shall produce their characters has had satisfactory results.

The question of defective teeth among recruits is a matter which becomes of greater mportance every year. At the end of the last trooping season reports received showed that the number of men rejected for service abroad with drafts owing to defective teeth.

The military memoirs of the late Duke of Cambridge are promised at an early date, from the hand of Major Willoughby Verner, who ook the work over from General Sir Martin G. Dillon. Canon Sheppard, the Sub-Dean of the Chapel Royal, is also preparing a more personal monograph dealing with the character and private life of the Duke, which will interest and amuse many. The Duke was in his time a very prominent personage, very generally and deservedly popular in society, and, when they pation, will be sold by auction at the Ordnance ew him and could appreciate his amiable qualities, with his comrades in arms. A little brusque of speech, he had little mercy for the idle and the incompetent, and did not hesitate to say so. Fault was sometimes found with his disposal of patronage, but he was always willing to push on the best man, more especially if a friend of his. He was conservative to the finger-tips, and to the last took credit as being the useful drag on the War Office coach when. as he thought it, on the downward grade, not seldom, however, hanging on behind when it wanted to climb. He was the kindliest of men. and the story of his life will disclose many acts of generosity and good nature. One is worth repeating. When the Duke was last on the Nile, a dragoman on Cook's steamer was much surprised to hear that his Royal High ness was older in years than the late Queen Victoria. "Why isn't he king, then ?" asked the Arab. The Duke was highly delighted, and sent for the dragoman. "I hear you want to make me a Sovereign," he said. "I'm atraid you can't do that, but I can give you one.' Canon Sheppard is freely welcome to this story

ANTIKITO CREAM

This wonderful preparation—which is most delightfully refreshing to use—is the This wonderful preparation—which is most delightfully refreshing to use—is the outcome of long laboratory research. During the last five years it has been thoroughly tested in all parts of the world. By its use the fatal mosquito, as well as FLIES, grasts and all flying insects, are set at defiance. It is absolutely infullible as a preventive, and is guaranteed to be free from carboic and other deleterious ingredients. It is neither sticky nor greasy, and one application to the exposed parts afford; protection for hours. Invaluable for hospital use, and should be in the kit of all expeditions. It is better than Quinine. Protects you from flies.
